

Trail OF THE Year 2014

REDBANK VALLEY TRAILS

in Armstrong, Clarion and Jefferson counties has been designated as Pennsylvania's first Trail of the Year. This new award program is coordinated by the Pennsylvania Trails Advisory Committee. Redbank Valley Trails stood out because of the dedicated work of tremendous volunteers; its scenic beauty; connection to other trail systems; and quick and efficient pace of development. Much of the 51-mile trail system runs along Redbank Creek and includes many bridges, and beautiful stone arches. The trail connects schools, soccer fields and rural areas to commercial residential centers. redbankvalleytrails.org

Feature photo courtesy of Sissy Rutkowski

