he Pennsylvania Wilds is home to some of the most spectacular wild lands in the East, and boasts more than two million acres of public land, including 29 state parks, eight state forests, 50 state game lands, and the state's only national forest. Here you'll find the darkest night skies, world class wild trout streams, hundreds of miles of land and water trails, and places that tell the story of Pennsylvania's rich lumbering heritage and conservation legacy. Whether you're an avid hiker, a hunter, a history enthusiast, a wildlife watcher, or all four, we invite you to discover the rugged beauty and adventure the region has to offer.

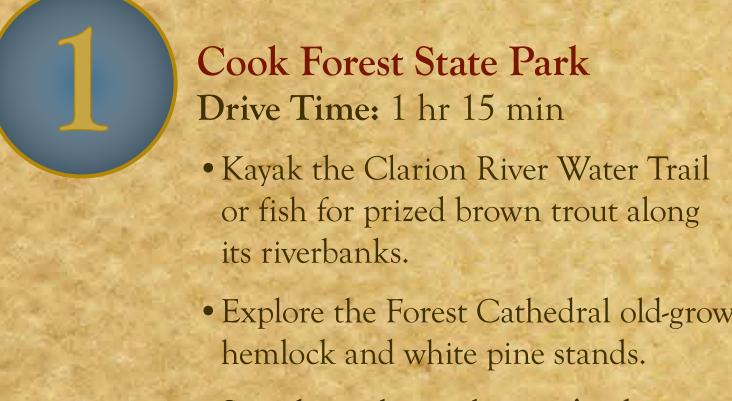

Below is a small sampling of regional highlights reachable by driving three hours or less from here.
